Oh I forgot this, because I have it set up on my browser:

At the top of the browser window in the menu area (below the black bar at the very top) is a tab that says "Screen Options" - Click on this and you will find some contextual options.

Under "Show advanced Menu Properties" check the one that says "Link target" (maybe you need to click the "apply" button after that) and it will give you the checkbox to "open in a new tab"

Hi, Allison,

I've linked the new current newsletter to the menu item CURRENT NEWSLETTER, and it works fine, except that I can't get it to open in a New Tab. (I figured out how to do so for other links, but this, in a menu item, seems different).

Do you know how?

tnanks,

Nick
